A possible version:

Dear worried mother,

I'm a student fond of the Internet, too. Like you, parents also worry about me. But I think things are not so bad as you many imagine.

Ture, many young people spend too much time on the Internet. As a result, some of them pay less and less attention to their studies. So quite a few parents and teachers consider the Internet harmful. However, I think most web sites are educational and fun. Young people like me can learn a lot of useful things from the Net, which is also useful to my school work. Besides, we get to know people with the same interest throughout the world.

I think you should discuss your worries with your son calmly. Children need their parent's understanding, but not scolding.

Sincerely yours

Li Hua
